FALL B
Lesson 2

Complex Choices

*“In all your ways acknowledge him,
and he will make your paths straight.”*

Proverbs 3:6

Does it seem like the choices your preteen has to make are much more complex than the choices you made? Have some fun with a game about making choices. While you're waiting in a restaurant or during dinner at home, play a game of “Would you rather . . .” Would you rather be able to fly or would you rather be able to run long and fast? Take turns asking each other questions. After a time, ask questions that have to do with choices in life, Would you rather do whatever you can to be popular or be someone kids trust? Be liked for who you are or have lots of money?

Try This:

Ask your child when are some times kids might not know what the best choice is. Together come up with things they can do to make good choices in those situations.
