FALL D
Lesson 10

Love Through Kindness

“But as for you, be strong and do not give up,
for your work will be rewarded.”

2 Chronicles 15:

For over a year, my daughter had asked me to enroll her in a ballet class. When I finally found one that fit our schedule, I signed her up, but four months later, she wanted to quit. She was tired of doing the same thing in every single class! I explained that the constant practice would all pay off in the end and that she'd be glad she had practiced when it was time for the recital. She moaned and groaned week after week. On the day after the recital, what do you think her reaction was? “I want to come back next year!” Use today's Bible verse often. It is a great reminder to our family that when we choose not to give up, there's a reward in store!

Try This:

Think of one thing you would like to do to improve your relationship with Jesus (read the Bible more often, pray before meals even when you're out, etc.). Challenge each family member to do the same. At the end of the week, gather over a favorite dessert. Set aside this time to talk about how it went and to encourage one another to keep on building a relationship with Jesus.
